Katy's Corner

Katy's Corner is a small shop in my area. When I do my shopping on Saturday, I always make time to go in and look around. It is a gift shop run by Katy, a woman in her 60s. The shop has a lovely atmosphere. The walls are covered with colourful pictures and cards. It is very welcoming.

If I am looking for a present, I am sure to find something suitable. There is something for everyone. There are toys, as well as scarves, jewellery and all kinds of gifts. Katy makes a lot of the jewellery herself, so it is not something you will find anywhere else.

Some of the jewellery can be expensive, although it's worth the money, but most of the other gifts are not expensive. Perhaps the nicest thing about the shop, though, is Katy herself. She is very friendly and enthusiastic. I would suggest you go just to meet her. She doesn't mind how long you spend looking around, and she doesn't try to sell you something you don't want. Sometimes I just go in for a chat.
